

Lacebark Elm (Ulmus parvifolia)

The Lacebark Elm has a rounded crown adorned with lustrous dark green leaves that change to yellow and reddish purple in fall. A landscape standout, it has distinctive bark, which is mottled and often creates colorful patterns in its trunk. It is valued for its shiny, dark green foliage and rounded shape.

The Lacebark Elm can grow to about 50' tall with a spread of up to 45'. Medium to fast-growing, this Elm adapts to many soil conditions and is relatively free from the diseases ravaging other elm species. This makes it a tough and durable tree for any situation, including as a street tree.
